

Bosquet is a North American company that specializes in thermoformed and thermoglued wood production methods that make it possible to pack your food product inside a natural-looking package.

The poplar raw material is produced from sustainably managed forests. By using wooden food packaging, your final product not only has an upscale appearance with a natural look and feel, but also sends an eco-friendly message. Our wooden packaging can also be lined with parchment paper or plastic for your specific needs.

Unique labeling decoration options such as burning, typography, wood tinting, and hot stamping.
